The Great Cave is so huge that:

- A Boeing 747 could fit inside
- It has cathedral-like ceilings
- It feels like walking into a natural stadium

Painted Caves, prehistoric red rock paintings:

- Ancient wooden coffins
- Burial sites thousands of years old

It shows how early people honored their dead.

At sunset, you can sometimes see bats flying out in waves.

Moon Cave is famous for:

- Huge bat colonies
- Thick guano (bat droppings)
- Dramatic limestone formations

It feels like an adventure movie before the caves even begin.

Trader's Cave is known for:

- Beautiful stalactites and stalagmites
- Narrow passages
- Crystal-like limestone walls

It's one of the most photogenic caves.

Before entering the caves, you walk through:

- Tropical rainforest
- Wooden boardwalks
- River crossings

Birds' Nest Collecting is still practiced

For hundreds of years, locals have harvested swiftlet nests from high cave walls. These nests are used for bird's nest soup and can be extremely valuable. Some collectors still climb using traditional methods.
